

Volunteer Spotlight

Meet Jake!

For the past year, Jake has been volunteering in our community, supporting residents through friendly visits, the Men's Group, and special events. He often spends quality time with residents by portering, dancing, or engaging in friendly conversation. His commitment to long-term care is rooted in a strong belief that every individual's story matters and deserves to be heard.

Originally from a quiet town in Northern Ontario, Jake now lives in Kitchener and attended Algonquin College. What he values most about volunteering at Trinity Village is the opportunity to make a positive impact while building meaningful connections with residents, staff, and other volunteers. For Jake, volunteering has become an important way to give back to the community.

Outside of volunteering, Jake enjoys staying active and trying new experiences. His interests include skydiving, paddle boarding, and hiking, which reflect his love for adventure and the outdoors. He also enjoys playing board games, appreciating the opportunity they provide to connect with others.
